Before the policemen could use their own weapons both men leaped through a side window and landed on the roof of a one-story barber shop. They slid over the back edge of the roof and sought to slide to the yard on a rain pipe. It broke and both men feel to the ground.

nis, football and other games after working hours, is set forth in a series of pictures sent to the Public Library by Sir Gilbert Parker, the novelist, and now on exhibition there.

The smiling faces of the German prisoners, as shown by the pictures, indicate why they are surrendering in squads and running toward the allied lines with the bullets of their own comrades picking at their heels, as news reports state.
The exhibit is in the main lobby of the
